Ganter Interior – success for brand identities

In just two decades, Ganter Interior has grown from a two-man business to one of the world's leading companies in the field of interior fit-out and GC works.

Over 360 employees in Europe, Asia and North America realise unique interior furnishings and perform interior works, including all general contractor services, on a daily basis.

The extensive client base includes architects, designers, retailers and global brands like Burberry, Louis Vuitton, Montblanc or Tom Ford, whose creative designs are brought to life by Ganter Interior. The industries which Ganter Interior works for are just as diverse as the countries where the projects are located in – from fashion and luxury to technology and private construction projects.

Since December 2015 Ganter Interior is also located near London with a subsidiary to implement and oversee international brand identities in the expanding capital. James Tindale and his team are currently working on several projects for the retail, private and public sector.

Get more information and visit us at Retail Design Expo at London's Olympia on the 9th & 10th March 2016 on our stand P3.
